EISBOCK AGED IN BOURBON BARRELS

When Russ and Jim Klisch cobbled together a brewery out of used dairy tanks inside an old bakery in Milwaukee's Riverwest neighborhood, did they think they were laying bedrock for a 30-year foundation? Trailblazers in a movement that would upend the brewing industry and take the U.S., and later the world, by storm? Of course not. Not when they were taking it one beer, one batch, one day at a time. But, 30 years is a rare achievement and this full-bodied, Bourbon Barrel-Aged Eisbock, packed with oak plank, vanilla, dark fruit and brown bread flavor, is a well-suited milestone.
